

2017 SCSA Annual General Meeting

The Saskatchewan Construction Safety Association (SCSA) was proud to recognize several important safety leaders in the province at its Annual General Meeting (AGM) on February 16, 2017 at the Travelodge Hotel in Saskatoon. The AGM was kicked off with keynote speaker, Dr. Larry Rosia, President and CEO of Saskatchewan Polytechnic, who spoke about the changes facing the construction industry and the close relationship between Saskatchewan Polytechnic and the SCSA.

Members of the 2016 Board of Directors were recognized for their service to the association, including 2016 Chairperson, Stacie Beever, the Community and Corporate Development Manager for Innovative Residential. Both Glenda Barton, the Chief Safety Officer in Human Resources for Safety and Environment at SaskPower, and Ken Pickering, President of Globe-Elite Electrical Contractors, were also recognized for their five years of service to the Board.

At its AGM each year, the SCSA honours individuals, companies, and committees, for their commitment to promoting effective health and safety management systems in the residential and commercial building construction industry in Saskatchewan.

“We wouldn’t succeed in raising awareness and promoting change to improve safety culture in our communities without the individual efforts of our members in industry,” says Collin Pullar, president of the SCSA.

“It’s an honour for us to recognize these folks for the work that they do that is ultimately an extension of our mission to reducing workplace injuries and fatalities in Saskatchewan, and in turn, ensuring construction projects are completed on time and on budget,” added Pullar.
